Based in Hong Kong, the inT Design Furniture team creates ideal home and office spaces with a high degree of freedom and flexibility.

The company was tasked with renovating the Central Park project as the clients were expecting a baby, and they wanted to make more use of the space within their home. The original layout of the house consisted of a master bedroom with connecting room, guest room, study room, living and dining area and two storage rooms.

To create a sense of warmth and sophistication in the living/dining room, soft grey hues were used in conjunction with white tones. A large painting was hung on one of the walls to add depth and visual interest, whilst Fornasetti Lina Cavalieri plates were mounted along with textured wallpaper to create a feature wall.

To better utilise the space within the home, the guest room and one of the storage rooms were converted into a walk-in closet. As the walk-in closet is the wife's personal haven, pink and white tones with marble and gold accents were used to add a feminine appeal.

With its beautiful soft grey and dusky pink hues, the master bedroom was transformed into a romantic sanctuary. White marble and gold accents added an immediate sense of luxury, while the pink upholstered wall panel clearly marks the sleep zone. The final result is an all-encompassing luxury home to create the perfect haven.
